Mines, Stocks, Investments

Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange.

Colorado Springs June 13. The week's business at the board closed firm and strong and with a good demand for stock. The number of shares traded in was as large as on previous days, though the aggregate value of the stocks which changed hands to day was much greater than any day during the past week. Prices were higher in many of the shares particularly Isabella, Mollie Gibson, Anaconda and Stamped Isabella. Isabella was the heaviest trade in the mine list, opening at 65 a gain of 1½ from yesterday's closing bid. At one time a slump to 64¼ took place after which a recovery to 65 was noted. The stock closed at 65, having total sales of 3,500 shares. Stamped Isabella was also firmer and higher opening at 61 and selling as high as 64¼ and closing at 64¼ with transfers of 2,500 shares. Portland had sales of 1700 at $1.82½. Anaconda opened at 60 and closed at 61, 1,000 shares changing hands. Flower of the West was a big seller at from 1¾ to 2 for 9000. In the prospective mine list Squaw Mountain was the principal feature opening a fraction higher than yesterday at 2½, at which figure 10,000 shares went under the hammer and closed at 2½. The stock closed at 2¾. Pappoose sold at 2½ and 3¼ for 2000 shares. Anaconda was almost lifeless, only 500 going at 7. In the prospects, Golden Treasure, Pauline and Corinne were the leading sellers. The total sales for the day were 147,850 shares. The market closed firm.

THE BOERS.

They Are a Pastoral People, and, Enough Simple, Are Suspicious.

The Boers are a pastoral rather than an agricultural people. They count their wealth by the number of their horses, their oxen and their sheep. During the dry season, between April and October, the Boers "trek" with their flocks and herds, to the outlying farms in the bush veldt, where they find abundant pasturage for their stock and protection for their families against the biting cold of the high veldt. It may be a matter of surprise to some to learn that large numbers of cattle are often found frozen to death on the highlands of the Transvaal. I have myself found some 20 head of oxen lying dead in the snow just outside the kraal, where they had been abandoned by their herds. The Boer has very few wants beyond what his farm can supply. His purchases usually consist of coffee, sugar, flour, saddlery, guns, rifles, ammunition, matches, crockery, cooking utensils, some clothing and a little gin. He does not therefore require to cultivate more than ten or a dozen acres out of his farm, which consists of some 6,000 acres or more. It is not probable that he has improved much in this respect if one may judge from the cost of most of the necessaries of life at the present time in the Transvaal.

My personal experience of the Boers of South Africa extends from 1877 to 1882, three of these years being spent in the Transvaal. From observations since and from information received from residents I am led to think that the Boer is much the same as he was 20 years ago. The rising generation is better educated than it was formerly, and there is little doubt that it has become a necessity for them to acquire our language much as their fathers may object to such a qualification. The Boer is an extremely suspicious person and is always on the alert against being "flunked." So distrustful were they of the banking institutions that many of them kept all the money they possessed in a box under their large four poster bedsteads in preference to placing it on deposit.—Westminster Review.

IN TIMES OF PIPING PEACE.

Then It Is That Man His Greatest Achievements Develops.

Man does his work best amid peaceful monotony, learns best when he has time for repetition, thinks to most advantage when he is able to chew the cud of thought. You cannot study to purpose with a door always banging; and a constant recurrence of startling incidents has much the same effect on the mind. Its force is dissipated and its edge all worn away. Wisdom comes chiefly from meditation, and it is not in the din of conflict, or when carried out of themselves by grand spectacles before their eyes, that men can meditate with profit, or relegate physical emotion, like fear or anger or hope, to its proper place in the economy of life.

There is a certain amount of energy developed by an interesting time, though it is curious that successful armies like the German are often bred in a long peace, and the Teutonic races acquire, when life grows painfully vivid, an increased capacity of self control, but those seem the only compensating advantages for a loss of intellectual keenness, such as perceptibly followed the great Franco-German war. It was when comparative dullness had fallen on the world and silence prevailed round the Mediterranean that Christianity was born, and it is in the "quiet times," which drive journalists frantic, though they always profess to be longing for them, that the great improvements of the world, both moral and material, emerge from thoughts into acts.

Steam was born in a time of war, but unrecognized till the world was quiet, and it was in a time of deadly dullness that the world devised and perfected the systems of communication by land and by water which have reduced its size one-half. "An interesting time," we strongly suspect, is a time that is principally good for newspaper proprietors.—London Spectator.

A Fatherly Stickleback.

The stickleback is a handsome, lively little fish which is found in salt and brackish waters. There are several varieties of the stickleback, which ranges from one to four or five inches in length at full growth. It is a nest building fish, the male stickleback building the nest of bits of plants and twigs, and when the female has deposited its eggs in the nest the male protects them against all comers, including perhaps fish of its own kind, until they are hatched. The little stickleback is a fighter, and it does not hesitate to tackle fish four or five times its size that might seek to destroy it.

And it would appear that the male stickleback not only protects the eggs, but looks out for the hatched out fish, at least until the little sticklebacks are able to take care of themselves. A lot of little sticklebacks have lately been hatched out at the aquarium. They are of a variety that attains at full size a length of about two inches. The other day when two or three of the little ones, each about a quarter of an inch in length, had found their way out of the nest or had been washed out of it by the motion imparted to the water by the stickleback swimming about over it the male stickleback put them back. They could swim a little, but apparently the male stickleback thought they were not yet strong enough to set out for themselves, and it followed each one up, picked it up carefully in its mouth and swam back with it and put it back in the nest.—New York Sun.

The Natives of British Guiana.

And what of the people of this interesting country? They number but 287,000, an infinitesimal proportion of what the area could support. When the Dutch went there in the sixteenth century, the forests were the home of large tribes of red Indians, who had probably found their way from the northern part of the continent along the chain of islands across the Caribbean sea. Now, however, there are scarcely 20,000 aborigines between the Orinoco and the Corentyn. The Caribs, the only warlike and courageous tribe among them, are practically extinct. The few who remain have lost their love of battle.

There is no market for slaves such as that established by the Dutch nearly 300 years ago on the Orinoco delta, and with the cessation of the trade in Indian labor for the Dutch plantations in the Pomeroon and Essequibo districts the Caribs found their occupation gone. They have dwindled down to the vanishing point. The diminishing tribes that remain are inoffensive and as shy, too, as the animals whose forest habitation they share. They make magnificent boatmen and woodmen, threading their way through the intricacies of the forest with an ease incomprehensible to the European—a giant tree, a fallen trunk, a broken twig, their only landmarks. And they know the rivers as only the aborigine can know them. From them and from the forest they draw their food.

In the woodlands, when they form a settlement, they clear a tiny patch and cultivate cassava, from the root of which they make large, thin cakes, which answer to the white man's bread. Macmillan's Magazine.

"La Traviata."

A contemporary account says: "At the first performance of 'La Traviata' the tenor, Graziani, took cold and sang his part throughout in a hoarse and almost inaudible voice. M. Varesi, the baritone, having what he would call a secondary role, took no trouble to bring out the dramatic importance of this short but capital part, so that the effect of the celebrated duet between Violetta and Germond in the second act was entirely missed. Mme. Donatelli, who impersonated the delicate, sickly heroine, was one of the stoutest ladies on the stage of off it, and when at the beginning of the third act the doctor declares that consumption has wasted away the young lady and that she cannot live more than a few hours the audience was thrown into a state of perfectly uproarious glee a state very different from that necessary to appreciate the tragic action of the last act."

No wonder that "La Traviata" made a fiasco under these trying circumstances! Yet when more adequately performed the opera soon became an immense favorite with numbers of all nations, and Verdi had no reason to remember the disaster attending its first appearance in public.—Cornhill Magazine.

TELLING TIME.

How the Mind Measures When There Is No Clock in Sight.

"Consciousness of the passage of time is determined by a consciousness of the sequence of events." This is true as a general rule. But the more number of events is not the only thing that determines our estimate of the time during which they happen. Time seems long if we attend to the succession of events especially. For instance, if we are waiting for something to happen, because each being more vividly impressed on the mind, in retrospect we aggregate their number and so make the time seem longer. While, if we are busily engaged, we do not notice each change of consciousness, and therefore the time seems short. This is true of long intervals, but not of short ones.

The result of some recent careful experiments seems to show that for such short intervals we have, strictly speaking, no time sense, but that our estimates depend upon the feelings of tension, of delay or of arrest, of ordinary physiological functions and especially of the breathing.

This was tested in the following way: A person's attention was directed to a certain interval of time, varying from 6 to 60 seconds. He was then asked to mark off an equal interval, beginning at the end of the first. The average error in so doing was 10 per cent of the original interval. The experiment was then arranged so that the second or closing sound of the original interval should come at the same "respiratory phrase," as the first or opening sound had done. The error was then only 2.9 per cent. In a second series of more difficult experiments, conducted on the same principle, the errors were respectively 4 per cent and 5.3 per cent. In a third series, where the attention was purposely withdrawn from the respiratory and tension feelings, the time judgment was utterly confused.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

From Another Point of View.

They had been telling fish stories, and the quiet, unobtrusive man looked weary.

The idler who spends his time in thinking up foolish questions broke the silence to inquire:

"I wonder what finally became of the whale that swallowed Jonah?"

"I don't know," replied the quiet man, "but I have an idea as to some of his movements."

"What is it?"

"I don't doubt that he hunted up a party of other whales and bored them nearly to death telling them how the largest man he ever caught wriggled loose and got away."—Washington Star.

A. L. Wooster, a prominent citizen of Osseo, Mich., after suffering excruciatingly from piles for twenty years, was cured in a short time by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, an absolute cure for all skin diseases. More of this preparation is used than all others combined. Colorado Springs Drug Co.

Young mothers dread the summer months on account of the great mortality among children caused by bowel troubles. Perfect safety may be assured those who keep on hand DeWitt's Colic & Cholera cure, and administer it promptly. For cramps, bilious colic, dysentery and diarrhoea, it affords instant relief. Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 13.—The strength, firmness and activity which have marked the sessions at the exchange for the past few days were still present at the call this morning and seemed to have been considerably augmented. The market was very active, prices either remained firm and unchanged or scored further advance over those that have recently taken place. Holders of securities expressed no trouble whatever in finding ready buyers and the latter were willing to give top notch figures in order to execute their respective instructions. A small short element in one or two of the favorites is reported to have taken kindly to the cover and probably added good assistance in helping to strengthen and advance the general market. The features of the mine list were Isabella, Pharmacist, Cripple Creek Consolidated, Jack Pot, Stamped Isabella, Work and Florence. The reaction at the close yesterday from the extremely high tension which had distinguished Isabella was still felt at the opening this morning for a short time. The opening sale in that favorite was recorded at 64¾, a loss from the last sale of Friday of ¾. The irresolution, however, did not last long and the second sale was made at 65, after which the stock climbed slowly to 65¾ and then to 65⅞, and 65⅞, then dropping by fractions to 65¼, at which figure it closed with total sales of 22,400 shares. Union opened stronger with a gain of ⅛ of a cent, the first sale taking place at 22⅝ and climbing to 1 at the close. Pharmacist was strong and in brisk demand, sales to the amount of 24,000 shares taking place. The stock opened at 8⅛, a gain of ⅛ from yesterday and at one time during the call went to 8⅜, but closed at 8⅛. Stamped Isabella opened higher, but later lost the gain having sales of 4,700 shares at from 64 to 63¾. Jack Pot was a heavy seller at 4¾. Findley had sales of 12,000 shares, and Mt. Rosa only 1,000 at 13, a gain of over a cent from yesterday, and with prospects of going still higher. Work gained strength during the call, opening at 10¾ and closing at 10¾, with transfers of 17,500 shares. In the unlisted stocks, Sacramento Flower of the West, Squaw Mountain Tunnel, Rattler and Enterprise were all good traders. Squaw Mountain and Sacramento remained practically unchanged, the former having sales of 13,000 and the latter 11,000 shares. Flower of the West sold for 2¼ for 15,000 shares, while Anchoria brought $1.67 for 200 shares. The market closed firm and active.

Des Moines Annual Meeting.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Des Moines Gold Mining Company yesterday the following gentlemen were chosen as directors for the ensuing year: A. S. Holbrook, Frank Heron, M. S. Herring, W. H. McIntyre, M. L. Dorr, Dr. H. P. Grover, E. K. Brymer, A. Hemenway and Robert Gale. A motion was made to increase the capital stock of the company was turned down by the directors.

Later at a meeting of the newly elected directors the following officers were selected: M. S. Herring, president, A. Hemenway, vice-president and Frank Heron, secretary and treasurer.

Exchange Election.

The meeting of the members of the Gold Exchange immediately after the call was called to elect four new members of the governing committee of that institution was not as exciting as some had anticipated. The utmost good feeling and harmony prevailed and the new members were chosen without any friction whatever. Out of a total membership of 86 only 37 broker were present to exercise their right of franchise. The ticket elected means with the unanimous approval of all the members, so say the gentlemen interested, Messrs. Heron, William P. Fisher, J. A. Sill and T. C. Parrish. These members serve three years each. Two are active and two associate members.

Electric Drill Test.

H. L. Marvin, inventor of the Marvin electric drill, has arrived in Victor and will make a second trial test of his drill under personal supervision, commencing Monday at the Columbia Victor mine. The Columbia mine is the deepest shaft down in the Cripple Creek district, being 1,000 feet deep. The shaft is located from the west entrance under Squaw mountain 600 feet. Within the next 200 feet the Climax, Santa Rita and M. K. & T. veins will be cut, the latter at a depth of 750 feet. The lessees on the M. K. & T. from the tunnel company have mined two cars of ore to $50 ore in the workings from the surface during the last two weeks.

ELKTON ANNUAL.

Stockholders Happy over the Prospects for the Future.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Elkton Consolidated company was held yesterday morning at the company's office, in the El Paso County bank building. Out of a capitalization of 1,250,000 shares 920,[illegible] shares were represented by person or proxy. The meeting lasted two hours, during which time a very general discussion of the company's affairs was gone into. The meeting was entirely harmonious. The following were unanimously elected directors—for the coming year, W. S. Jackson, William Sherwell, George Bernard, Samuel Bernard and Dr. J. W. Graham of Denver.

The new board of directors organized by the election of its officers as follows: George Bernard, president, W. S. Jackson, vice president, and J. H. Avery, secretary and treasurer.

The reports of the various officers were read and approved. The report of President Bernard shows that during the past year, there was driven 2040 feet of levels, the main shaft has been sunk 200 feet and uprising to the amount of 500 feet has been done. During the year, new boilers, pumps and one six drill air compressor with four drills, costing $11,000 have been put in place. The company has yet 1,500 feet of drilling to do above the second and third levels of the Elkton north into the Walter mine. Up to the present time, these levels have been driven a distance of 50 feet into the Walter property above the first level of the Elkton mine, all of which are showing fine ore bodies. As the Walter lies further up the hill, which has a 33 per cent. grade, the first level that is driven from the Elkton cuts the Walter at a depth of 400 feet and gives the latter property an immense amount of stoping ground. When the second and third levels of the Elkton have been driven into the Walter ground this amount of stoping ground will be very greatly increased.

During the year just ended the production of the Elkton company amounted to $175,121.44. Of this amount $143,158.72 has been produced since February 1 of this year. The cash on hand today is $40,579.04, a net gain since the 13th day of May, of $10,364.75. In addition to this cash reserve, the company now has 16 cars of ore in transit, the returns from which will be more than sufficient to pay the dividend of $10,000 which was declared a few days ago. The amount of ore in sight in both mines will give employment to the same number of men as are now employed for at least two years to come and will earn more than two dividends each month for that time. The company's reserve fund, under the wise and conservative management of the officers, is rapidly increasing and will probably reach the $100,000 limit within sixty days.

The concluding paragraph of President Bernard's annual report reads as follows: "This surely must be a satisfactory result to you and I congratulate the stockholders on owning so valuable a property, and from the developments already made I feel warranted in predicting substantial dividends for a long period to come."

CHLORINATION WORKS.

Excavation Completed—Walls are Going Up—Material Arriving.

The big chlorination mill of the Colorado-Philadelphia Reduction company, says the Colorado City Iris, is slowly but surely rising from the ground. Already hundreds of tons of red sandstone have been put in the foundations, which are three feet thick. Two large derricks are used to handle the large blocks of stone, which are brought from the Kelmuir quarries in Red Rock canon.

The graders finished their contract Tuesday evening and departed. The carpenters are working on the timbers for the sampler building, which will be equipped with machinery as soon as the building is completed. The company will start the sampling portion of the works long before the chlorination mill is completed. This department will be provided with a 15-horse-power Corliss engine and a 10-foot crusher.

The plans of the building have been materially changed and the excavations show that the plant will be almost one-third larger than originally intended.

The office and laboratory building is a fine red sandstone structure, ready for plastering, and will be completed within the next two weeks. The big brick chimney for the laboratory furnaces are on hand and work will be commenced as soon as flue lining is secured.

Considerable delay is occasioned by the non-arrival of building material of various kinds, especially iron.

The mill will be the largest of the kind in the United States, and when completed will be capable of treating more than ten times as much ore as any other mill in the United States, and were it not for the fact that many of the ores treated in the mill have to come from Mexico, we would be trying to convince you that Colorado Springs is the place for a boom of the enormous work to be done in Colorado City for years to come.

Mt. Rosa and Rattle Mt. Tunnel.

The big bore which the Mt. Rosa and Rattle Mountain Tunnel company is now driving under the townsite of Victor has been driven a distance of 750 feet. A new contract for another 150 feet has just been let by the company, at the completion of which the tunnel will probably be in a good ore body. The total depth which the tunnel has so far reached is 750 feet. The company is contemplating putting on air drills when the contract just made is completed and in the future drive the tunnel itself.

PINE CREEK MINING.

Strike in Black Canon—Gold Standard Bonded for $150,000.

[illegible] the recent discovery of rich quartz in Black canon. A large number of people have quietly gone in there since the discovery and staked the entire country. The quartz is free milling and a small piece of it pans a fine stream of colors. The district is in the immediate vicinity of the old Gold Dirt diggings which were operated very profitably away back in the 60s and 70s, and were all located along the silver outcrops. The old stamp mill is to be remodeled and a new mill is assured for this part of the district.

The Eberle brothers of Cripple Creek have closed negotiations whereby they secure a two years' lease on the Gold Standard for $150,000, with a [illegible] cash payment. The Thanatopsis owned by C. R. Baer, H. Goldman and William Converse, is one of the most promising prospects in the camp. The shaft is down only twelve feet, but in that depth a vein of white iron and milling quartz is discovered.

J. C. and J. A. Butler have struck a rich lead of honeycomb quartz, carrying free gold, in the Pearlie B. The mine adjoins the Ingram group.

Union Shipments.

For the week ending June 12, the Union company shipped eight narrow-gauge cars of ore to the smelter at Pueblo. Five of these cars came from the Orpha May mines, two of which were first grade ore, two second and one third. Of the three cars that came from the Pike's Peak mine, two were first grade ore, and one third grade. Included in this consignment, were 8 sacks of very rich ore from the rich pay streak in the Orpha May. The last sacked ore sent from this strike went nearly 76 ounces gold per ton.

Elkton Shipments.

For the week ending June 12, the Elkton Consolidated company shipped eight cars of ore to the Pueblo smelter and reduction works. Of this number four cars were high grade and will run about $100 per ton, and four were medium and carry about $50 per ton. In addition to these eight cars, two cars of low-grade stuff was sent to the cyanide works at Florence that will return about $30 per ton. The ore mined last week came from the second and third levels in the Walter mine exclusively.

Current Notes.

The M. K. & T. located near the Nellie V. on Squaw mountain, is preparing another shipment.

Drifting both ways from the bottom of the 165-foot shaft has been started on the Meinhadt lease on the Grace Greenwood.

The Rattler company is refitting the Gregory shaft, and will put in a plant of machinery. Sinking will be started from the bottom of the 95-foot shaft.

Another property, a lease, belonging to the Modoc claim, is also in pay ore. It is called the Saxby lease, and the lessees have pay ore ready for shipment.

The Rattler, on Raven hill, where the big trench exposed the large body of rich ore about a week ago is proving to be all that the first reports predicted for it. The Rattler is strictly one of the new shippers.

The Legal Tender, one of the Golden Cycle company's properties, is growing better with development, and the output will be considerably increased in the near future. At present about a car a day of hill ore and a car a week of smelter ore are being hoisted.

The new shaft on the Stowe Range, one of the Raven company's properties, being sunk by Jamieson Bros. & Orman, is over forty feet deep. It is being sunk to catch the chute which was cut in the 100 foot shaft, and from which $900 was taken. Rich ore is expected in a few feet.

The Alice Raven on Raven hill, Thursday shipped ten tons of good grade ore to the Metallic Extraction works at Florence. The Alice is one of the new shippers that has recently been developed. D. V. Shobe, the superintendent, has gone to Denver to purchase a plant of machinery for the property.

The Trail group, which is located on the saddle between Bull Hill and Battle mountain is worked under bond and lease by S. M. Perry and others. The shaft is now 70 feet deep and some ore has been sacked from rich pockets which have been occasionally found in sinking. No steady values have yet been encountered.

The Barrack lease on the Gold Sovereign has recently taken out some very good ore from the narrow streak in the vein and the first shipment was made about June 5th. This lease adjoins the Lottie on Bull hill and is only about 70 feet from the Bryant shaft from which a shipment of ore was made a few days ago that ran into the thousands per ton.

New machinery has been placed on the Tom and Penrose lease on the Abe Lincoln in Poverty gulch. The shaft is about midway between the company's works of the Abe Lincoln and the Lone Star works of the Anaconda company. They have encountered rich ore at 100 feet and will soon, no doubt, be making regular shipments of high-grade ore.

A shaft is being sunk on the Nightingale on the south slope of Bull hill, which adjoins the Rattler claim, which has recently been the scene of a big strike at the surface. P. G. Ingoldsby has made a survey of the Rattler vein and finds it to cross the Nightingale ground. The new shaft is down 40 feet and is being pushed with two shifts with [illegible] feet.

The Gold Banner Mining company is working the Silver King lode in Arequa gulch adjoining the Texas girl. Three shifts of men are at work sinking the shaft now down 60 feet. It will be sunk at the 65 foot point when crosscuts will be run both ways to cut the big porphyry dykes which pass on each side of the surface where the shaft is going down.

At the Portland offices this afternoon it was emphatically denied that that company had secured an option on the mines of the old Lawrence chlorination works. Secretary Peck was much surprised at the statement which appeared in one of the Victor dailies and said that the company had definitely no use for the old works.

A considerable amount of ore is now on dump at the Grand on Bull hill. Twenty tons of ore that will run $25 per ton and some high grade ore will be ready for shipment about the 20th. The lease on this property expires on July 1 when the owners of the Lincoln company will take charge of the property and work the [illegible].

A CONTEST OF DEBATERS.

Mr. Holt Awarded the Prize at the Exhibition Last Night.

FACULTY WON THE BALL DEBATE

Claim it by a Big Score--Events To-day and To-morrow in Connection With Commencement Week at Colorado College.

The commencement exercises of Colorado College opened last evening in the College Chapel with the junior prize debate. The subject of the debate was "Whether it is for the Interests of the United States that the Monroe Doctrine as Promulgated by President Cleveland, Should Become the Settled Policy of the United States." The affirmative was taken by Mr. Claude Hacker and Mr. C. N. Bissell, the negative by Mr. O. P. Avery and Mr. Arthur E. Holt.

Mr. Claude Hacker spoke first. He showed marked talents as a public speaker, being possessed of a forcefull manner and fluent delivery. His argument in brief was as follows:

He said that President Cleveland in opposing the alleged extension of British territory at the expense of the friendly republic of Venezuela was not attempting a new departure in our foreign policy but was upholding and asserting the original principles of the Monroe doctrine. The situation in Venezuela is similar to that which existed in Mexico at the time of the invasion of Maximilian and demands a like treatment. The only question in the present Venezuelan dispute is one of fact. To ascertain the true state of affairs the Venezuelan commission has been appointed. If England has actually attempted to despoil Venezuela it is the political and moral duty of the United States to interfere to protect her.

The next speaker, Mr. O. P. Avery, argued in the negative. Mr. Avery has a dignified presence, a serious manner and considerable force of style. The substance of his argument was as follows: The United States cannot claim a right to intervene in the boundary dispute of Great Britain and Venezuela except on one of three grounds. First that the United States has sovereignty over the South American republics, second that if not sovereign it at least exercises a protectorate; third, that the safety and interests of the United States are directly and seriously menaced by the encroachments of Great Britain. The first two he refused to consider as consonant with American ideas of free government, even though Secretary Olney has declared that the fiat of the United States is law for the Western hemisphere. The United States, therefore, can only act on the general principle of international law which sanctions interference with the actions of sovereign States—namely that the peace, safety and interests of the United States are vitally affected. But this is contrary to the obvious facts of the case; the territory in dispute is remote and the difficulty merely concerns the correct boundary line, and neither the economic interests nor the political power and influence of the United States are endangered. The Monroe doctrine was originally promulgated for a specific aggression of European powers. President Cleveland, however, has not only broadened and exaggerated it but has attempted to impose upon the United States in all future controversies the duty of defending the South American republics from just punishment, etc.

The third speaker was Mr. C. N. Bissell of Silver Cliff, Colo. Mr. Bissell is an interesting and earnest speaker. Mr. Bissell contrasted the Monroe doctrine as a doctrine of justice and equity with the selfish European principle of the Balance of Power. He further maintained that the doctrine as laid down by President Cleveland was the same as that enunciated by President Monroe, and that it was not only a principle which had a place in the hearts of all Americans but its enforcement was necessary to the peace and happiness of the United States.

Mr. Arthur E. Holt of Longmont concluded the debate. Mr. Holt is well known as a speaker and debater by all who have followed college affairs. He was one of the college representatives at the State oratorical contest in Denver last February. His style is impressive and forceful, his arguments cogent and skillfully marshalled. Only two grounds, according to Mr. Holt, justified the United States in interference in the Venezuelan imbroglio. First, as demanded by the observance of the Monroe doctrine in its true sense, as understood by Monroe, second, because in the merits of the question, our interference was necessary and proper. But as to the first, it was absurd to claim that the Monroe doctrine involved the protection of South American republics in all controversies whatsoever. Second, the intrinsic merit of Venezuela's cause did not warrant an interference in this particular case.

After the conclusion of the principal arguments, for which the speakers were allowed 10 minutes each, a short period was allowed to them to refute the assertions of the opponents. This proved to be the most interesting part of the affair, as the contestants were thoroughly warmed up to their subject.

The judges of the debate were Rev. Mr. Brewster of Grace Church; Judge Lunt and H. M. Blackmer, Esq. After a short conference they brought in a unanimous verdict in favor of Mr. A. E. Holt as the winner of the prize. Mr. Brewster, who spoke for the judges, remarked that the real extemporary character of the debate was shown by the fact that the second speeches of the competitors surpassed their first efforts.

At the beginning of the exercises and during the conference of the judges Miss Ehrich entertained the audience with two charming selections on the piano.

Commencement Week.

On Sunday President Slocum preaches the baccalaureate sermon to the senior class in the College Chapel at 4:30 p. m. The music will be by the Cecilia society—a trio, with three solo parts taken by Mrs. Mohrhart, Miss Walmsley and Miss Cooper. Chancellor McDowell will address the Christian Union societies of the college on Sunday evening at 8 in the First Presbyterian Church.

On Monday the college and the academy hold their class day exercises. The college exercises are to take place at 10 a. m. in the College Chapel. Besides the usual programme there will be various musical numbers and a mysterious "cremation" is announced as a concluding rite.

The Academy class day exercises occur in the afternoon at 3 p. m. in the College park, back of Montgomery hall. An interesting programme is announced.

20 TO 12.

That is the Way the Faculty Announces the Score.

The game of the trustees and faculty of Colorado College, against the Intercollegiate champions, resulted in a glorious victory for the faculty. The moment President Slocum stepped to the diamond, hat in hand, both spectators and players felt that something was going to happen—and it happened. The faculty team was in excellent condition. Professor Parsons had his pitching arm with him. Dr Walker just flew about on the field, and Mr. Philip Washburn's hat looked as if it just came from the shop. All the people who know a good thing when they see it had come out to witness the game.

At 3 o'clock sharp—or very nearly so—the umpire, Professor Gordon of Trinidad, cried "play ball—and the ball began. To describe all the good plays made, is impossible, but a few deserve special notice. The most remarkable was President Slocum's two-bagger. He found the ball Carlson pitched and carried it where no one could [illegible] on it he was safe on second. Dr Walker made several fine hits and [illegible] the field covered second and [illegible] shortstop's and left fielder's position at once. Dean Noyes was [illegible] center field, busily engaged [illegible] while Professor Ahlers [illegible] down in right field.

The College team [illegible] Professor Lamson [illegible] balls but [illegible] came Mr. G[illegible] H[illegible] Mills D. Quigg [illegible] Packard [illegible] they were [illegible] by Walter Lincoln who made [illegible] the field.

ST. FRANCIS' FAIR

Entertainment for the Hospital Benefit Occurs This Week.

For some time preparations have been going forward for a benefit fair for St. Francis's hospital, this city, and it has been decided to hold it this week. The fair will be in progress at Darke hall every evening from Tuesday until Saturday, closing Saturday night. Many ladies of the city have been contributing their work and beautiful articles have been prepared for sale. There will be special features of entertainment each evening during the week.

The proceeds are to be used by the Sisters in building an addition to the hospital. The main building of the institution was erected in 1887 and a year later it was found necessary to put on an addition. This addition was built on the south end. The Sisters are now desirous of putting on a corresponding wing on the north end. In fact this addition is now an imperative necessity. The hospital has accommodations for 35 patients in the wards and private rooms and the beds are occupied all the time. In fact they have not half the accommodations that could be used. With this addition they would be able to accommodate at least 25 patients more. Besides the wing it is their desire to also erect a brick building separate from the main building for contagious diseases. This is almost an imperative necessity in this city, where there is no place to take contagious cases that occur in boarding houses and public places.

It is to be hoped that the fair will be well patronized, not only on account of the pleasure that can be derived but to help the cause St. Francis hospital cared for over 300 patients last year of whom 165 were poor people who could not pay. That is a big per cent. So far this year they have had 201 patients, of whom 121 are charity patients. One poor rheumatic has been there for over a year, unable to move hand or foot. These patients are accepted regardless of race, creed or color. The hospital is now in charge of Sister Clara, a very bright and intelligent woman, and the house is well managed.

On Wednesday evening at the fair the special feature will be a supper, which will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be served every evening, but it is the intention to make a special feature of the Wednesday spread. Thursday evening there will be a musical programme in which Miss Mamie E. Benjamin and Ruth E. Judd will have part. Friday and Saturday evenings will be especially attractive. Joe Newman, the popular entertainer from Denver, will be here and will sing. He will present some of his own songs and some of Chevalier's coster songs. Joe will be enough to draw a crowd without anything else.

Altogether the fair promises to be a great success and to net the Sisters a good round sum. It is helping a worthy cause to push it along.

CHEYENNE TRIBE NO. 44.

A Lodge of the Red Men Formed in the City Last Evening.

A new lodge has been formed in the city, a branch of the Improved Order of Red Men, to be known as the Cheyenne Tribe No. 44. At about 7:30 last evening a large delegation of the Pueblo Tribe, known as the Minequa Tribe No. 17, arrived in the city and were escorted from the depot by the Fort Logan branch of the organization, known as the Onandaga Tribe, and a number of local people who were to become members of the new lodge. The procession was headed by the Colorado Springs band and after marching through the principal streets of the city went to K. of P. hall. About seventy charter members were installed after which the following officers were elected: Sachem, Oscar Dickens; Sr. Sagamore, Samuel Schlessinger; Jr. Sagamore, A. R. Rich; Prophet, N. L. Hutley; C. of R., J. W. Stuart; K. of W., W. J. Vickers, 1st Sannat, Fred M. Munn, 2nd Sannat, Chas. P. Stuck, 1st Warrior, Joseph Chadbourne, 2nd Warrior, F. E. Swansen; 3rd Warrior Chas. Gyes; 4th Warrior, F. C. Slotter, 1st Brave, John W. Chubb; 2nd Brave, E. A. Barratt, 3rd Brave, C. C. Cooper; 4th Brave, Max Oppenheimer, 1st Scout, D. I. Christopher, 2nd Scout, E. R. Whitemarsh; Guard of Wigwam, O. S. Parker, Guard of Forest, Oscar Swanson.

There were present as installation officers Joseph B. Geiger of Pueblo, Adam Geiger of Manitou, Great Sachem, Henry Kiefers, Great Sachem of Records, James H. Cates, Past Great Senior Sagamore and George W. Miller, of the Fort Logan Tribe.

A TALENTED YOUNG LADY.

Sketch of Miss Jessie Memminger and Her Career.

Miss Jessie Memminger, the daughter of Doctor T. B. Memminger and the grand-daughter of the Hon. C. G. Memminger, the prominent lawyer and politician of South Carolina, who was especially noted during the war as the [illegible], is a young lady of remarkable histrionic talent. She is of medium height, bright, witty, vivacious and [illegible] possessed of a handsome expressive face and a well developed symmetrical figure, although [illegible] Miss Memminger is well educated, having attended some of the best institutions of learning in the country, including our Colorado College. She made her debut in this city nearly two years ago with marked success and at once won the applause and good wishes of her audience. At the end of a successful season as the star in the play of "Colorado," after demonstrating her ability, to the satisfaction of her friends, the critics and the public, she retired for further study under the training of noted Chicago instructors in both music and the dramatic art.

In order to obtain the necessary means to properly start her daughter upon her career, Mrs. Memminger went into business at Cripple Creek, in which she invested all her available money, and just as the success was crowning her enterprise, the first Cripple Creek fire swept away all her possessions, but undaunted by this seemingly irreparable loss, she started another business—just in time to be again burned out in the second fire. It is to be hoped that the generous citizens here, who always appreciate pluck, will give her daughter a rousing benefit on next Tuesday night at the opera house when Miss Memminger will appear in the role of Josephine in "The Child of the Regiment," supported by an unusually strong cast. Mr. John S. Lindsay, the leading man, has reputation as a conscientious, artistic interpreter of the best thought in the legitimate drama.

ONLY 12 MORE DAYS

In Which I Can Receive Consumptive Patients.

I guarantee a positive cure in twenty-one days in every case I treat, all I ask is for you to [illegible] your money in the bank and when your physician says you are cured, the money is to be paid to me. I will [illegible] one cent of your money until you are [illegible] sound and well. As I am traveling quite [illegible] you to write to any city or county official at Ripley, O., or Anderson, Ind., where I have spent the most of my life and where I have practiced medicine for the past 40 years and [illegible] and refer to the [illegible] in this county. If the number I can treat is limited by the [illegible] viz: I hereby offer to refund the money in any case of consumption I accept for a second stage which I cannot cure in 21 days and which does not stop cough after my treatment.

Consumption No Longer Incurable.

The most advanced and learned men of the age agree without one dissenting voice that the cure of consumption by killing the bacilli is only a question of finding the proper agent. I have discovered that agent and can point with professional pride to scores of men and women that I have cured in the past two years. If you wish to be cured, do not fail to commence treatment on or before June the 25th as I will not promise to take any new patients after the above date. My office is at 22½ North Tejon street, Colorado Springs.

School Census.

The census report of El Paso county has been compiled for this year. There were in the county, on the 10th day of April 10,614 children of school age. Of this number 5404 were boys and 5210 were girls. Colorado Springs has a census of 4176, an increase of 850 over last year. The school census in the county shows an increase of 2312 over last year.

Miss Elsbeth Meyer, a very fine pianist and a graduate of the Scharwenka Conservatory of Berlin, will arrive here by to-morrow and spend the summer in this city. Miss Meyer comes highly recommended by Xaver Scharwenka. After studying with this great master for four years she served for a term of two years as a teacher of piano in that celebrated institution. Subsequently she made a concert tour through Germany, Sweden, Holland and England, and played before kings, princes and nobles with the greatest success. A few months ago Miss Meyer played in Little Rock with her teacher, Xaver Scharwenka, his Polish dances for four hands, and the audience went wild with delight over the playing of these artists. Miss Meyer will open here a summer course of piano and voice instruction.

Effort seems to be concentrate this week on the Pueblo circuit of El Paso county.

The Denver Times has started in to make a record for itself on the St. Louis convention.

The Cripple Creek people have a very graceful and hearty way of saying "Thank you."

Note the classified advertisements in The Gazette this morning. Quite metropolitan, isn't it.

The principal question in Cuba at present seems to be, will Gen. Weyler wait for Gen. Lee to join him?

Only three weeks to the Fourth. Colorado Springs will celebrate the day with becoming dignity, as usual.

A new chemical compound is hard enough to cut diamond. It is a compound of carbon and boron.

The Cripple Creek fire was at first a catastrophe. Already it is regarded as an incident. Soon it will be a reminiscence.

As an empty honor there is one thing worse than the Vice-Presidency. It is an election as alternate to a national convention.

The weight of evidence points to the probable nomination of McKinley for President of the United States at St. Louis next Tuesday.

Unconscious humor is sometimes the funniest. A Connecticut paper recently referred to a "bolting" delegation of Prohibitionists. It should have been "bolting."

The Republican party will win at the next election. How will it help silver to drive all the silver men out of that party and turn it over without a struggle to the gold bugs?

"Malvar" is the latest political epithet. It is applied to those who, financial views tinge all their opinion, will be yellow. As a restful change from "goldbug," it is not wholly unwelcome.

The quarrel between the Colorado Midland and the Midland Terminal is an additional reason for the construction of the Bear Creek short line. Colorado Springs ought to have direct and independent communication with Cripple Creek.

The row over the accommodation of the colored delegates at St. Louis ceased as suddenly as it began. It appears to have been a shrewd move on the part of the Southern delegates to obtain good rooms which they had on hand to engage in advance.

Washington is making big preparations for the reception of the 6000 delegates who are expected to attend the International Convention of Christian Endeavor Societies. The hotels are expected to be crowded, but all the rest of the Colorado Springs people will be adopted and room solicited in private families.

GAZETTE IMPROVEMENTS.

So often in the past few months The Gazette has had to call the attention of its readers to enlargements and improvements made in its form or its equipment that it may seem to be becoming a habit. The Gazette, however, will persist in growing, and The Gazette must grow with it.

This time it is two new linotype machines which have been put in in the Gazette news room in the past week. These machines are of the very latest pattern, being constructed under patent dated as late as March 24th, 1896, and with two other patents dated in March and February of the present year. The purpose of the additions is to permit more and better work in the type-setting department. With the old machines it was necessary to run continuously night and day to get up the paper, and the frequent breakdowns which were unavoidable from somewhat antiquated machinery were disastrously apparent in the paper of the succeeding morning. With the new machines added to its equipment The Gazette is in a position to meet all present demands upon it, and to furnish a paper regularly fresh and complete in all departments.

We shall print a larger amount of telegraph news, including complete financial and market reports, and reduce the plate or ready-set matter to a minimum. Beginning on Tuesday morning next we shall begin and continue through the summer season a daily Manitou correspondence from our own representative in that city, and shall also give considerable space to the Ute Pass and other local resorts. The mining department of The Gazette is recognized as the best and most accurate for news of the Cripple Creek mines and mining stocks, and it will be maintained at the highest standard.

Special editions will be issued from time to time, as occasion may demand, and in general no effort will be spared to make The Gazette thoroughly representative of Colorado Springs and its best interests.

KEEP YOUR SAVINGS AT HOME.

In keeping with the general policy of this paper, we wish to call attention to another case in which our citizens send their money away from home to get results which can be obtained equally well in our own city, and oftentimes with much greater satisfaction and profit. We refer to the comparative ease with which a smooth-tongued agent of an outside building and loan association can induce our citizens to intrust their savings to the care of his institution, though they know nothing of the responsibility and the safeguards may be thousands of miles away. While our city has no active institution of this nature, this was perhaps excusable, but here and elsewhere we have an excellent savings and loan association, as everyone knows or should know, since it has made its presence continually known through our columns.

The advantages of such a local association may be briefly summarized as follows. In the first place the wage earner or other investor can ascertain fully the character and responsibility of the persons managing the association and the kind of security on which they invest its funds. He can attend the meetings of the association, cast his vote for such officers as he approves and see that a competent committee is appointed to audit the books and examine the securities, which are kept in the possession of the association in its fire-proof vault. He knows, too, that the funds are loaned here at home on good security, under the personal supervision of the officers, and not thousands of miles from the home office, where careful examination of the securities and subsequent care of the loans are impossible.

These advantages apply equally well to the borrowing member, who depends on the success of the association for the cancelling of his loan. More than one case has come to our notice of borrowers who sent their money month after month to Salt Lake City and other far-away places, only to find that owing to the gross mismanagement of irresponsible people their supposed accumulations toward paying off their loan have disappeared and the debt is as large as ever.

There, too, everyone can go to headquarters and get full and honest information of the plans and operations of the association, and not be misled by careless and often untruthful statements of agents who are here to-day and gone to-morrow.

In addition to this every inhabitant of Colorado Springs is interested in and benefits by the operations of a home association, which keeps the money of its members here, to be lent for the building of homes. This adds a fortune to mechanics of all classes and making business for all dealers in building materials.

As this money goes out into circulation among our people in this way, everyone feels the benefit. The carpenter pays the grocer from his wages, the grocer pays his clerks, who in turn pay their bills, till it would be difficult to compute the amount of population brought about by the money paid out in a single month by such an association. In the building of some twenty-three new houses, more than $[illegible] has already been poured into the channels of trade by the one association above referred to, and its income and consequent outgo is increasing continually. Money sent to outside associations goes from us entirely, and is lost to the city as far as stimulating its growth goes. Investigation shows that two Denver associations alone draw nearly $[illegible] a month from this city, and the many others, located all the way from New Hampshire to Utah, must take several hundred dollars a month more.

Why should not our capital be accumulated and used here where there is so good an safe demand for it?

BEAUTIFUL MANITOU.

Habit dulls the keenest enjoyment. The people who live nearest the things best worth seeing are the ones who appreciate them the least. Strangers come from hundreds and even thousands of miles to visit the places which those who live near by seldom or never visit, though they can see them at any time. And so we who live in Colorado Springs are sometimes in danger of forgetting that less than half a dozen miles intervene between us and the chief of the Western summer resorts, a place richly endowed by Nature, and one whose charms have been marvelously developed by the skill and enterprise of man.

The Gazette takes especial pleasure this morning in calling attention, somewhat at length, to the charms and the advantages of the great Pike's Peak resort, in the first place because Manitou so well deserves it, and in the second because it is a part of our own community. It is a pleasure to praise where praise is so well deserved. It is a pleasure to recommend where the recommendation is so sure to be well sustained. It is a satisfaction to speak well of our neighbors because they are our neighbors, connected with us by the closest ties of acquaintance, business relations and political union.

We hope that the influence of The Gazette may be felt among our people in favor of a visit to Manitou this summer. Colorado Springs can well afford to do this. Our own hotels and houses are crowded and will remain so. We want that Manitou should have a generous share in our prosperity. We want the people of the East and South to know that the great summer resort of Colorado is unsurpassed anywhere, and we would like it if more of Colorado Springs people would follow the example of a gentleman who makes it a regular practice to spend one afternoon a week throughout the summer at Manitou.

GREATER NEW YORK COMMISSION.

Governor Morton has announced the appointment of the remaining members of the Greater New York commission, which is required to prepare a charter for the big city by Feb. 1 next. The men he selected are:

Seth Low, president of Columbia College and Mayor of Brooklyn; General Benjamin F. Tracy, ex-judge of the Court of Appeals and ex-Secretary of the Navy; John F. Dillon, ex-judge of the United States Circuit Court; Ashbel P. Fitch, lawyer, ex-member of Congress and now comptroller of the city of New York; General Stewart L. Woodford, lawyer, and ex-Lieutenant-Governor; Silas B. Dutcher, banker and ex-superintendent of public works; William C. De Witt, lawyer, and formerly corporation counsel of Brooklyn; George M. Pinney, Jr., lawyer, and district attorney of Richmond county; Garret J. Garretson, county judge of Queens county.

The Greater New York act named ex-officio the other commissioners the following: Mayor Strong of New York, Andrew H. Green, president of the former Greater New York commission, Mayor Wurster of Brooklyn, Mayor Gleason of Long Island City, Attorney General Hancock, and State Engineer Adams.

The opponents of consolidation have some representation on the commission, Mayors Strong and Wurster having vetoed the Greater New York bill, and Seth Low having made a speech against it. General Tracy is reported to have said that he thought it a politically hazardous thing for the legislature to unite the Republican city of Brooklyn with the Democratic city of New York.

As for the political division of the commission it is Republican in the proportion of about three to one, but Ashbel P. Fitch and William C. Dewitt, not to speak of Mayor Gleason, are capable of defending the interests of the Democratic party.

To most people it seems a backhanded sort of way to unite the cities first and then to prepare a plan for their government, which may be rejected by next year's legislature. But the New Yorkers are the ones chiefly concerned, and they have an undoubted right to do their own business in their own way.

No Betrayal of Cuba.

With any other President than Mr. Cleveland in the White House the American people would not give a moment's thought to the suggestion that the government at Washington is bargaining for the betrayal of Cuba to Spain. But the American people would hardly be surprised to see Mr. Cleveland attempt to bargain away territory belonging to the Union itself, after his course in regard to Hawaii, his proposed surrender of American interests in Samoa, and his indifference to British encroachments in Nicaragua and in Alaska. Statements that he is conducting some sort of negotiation with Spain for an adjustment of the Cuban issue on a basis other than the recognition of Cuban independence have been so frequent of late as to justify an impression that there is some foundation for them, and now that Gen. Bradley T. Johnson, an ex-confederate officer of respectable reputation, indorses the reports in a dispatch from Havana over his own name, the subject assumes an aspect sufficiently serious to warrant attention.

It might well be supposed that Mr. Cleveland's Hawaiian experience had taught him that the American people will not tolerate the use of the power or influence of the government against the cause of liberty elsewhere. The American people, almost to a man, are with Cuba, and, like the Cubans themselves, they will be satisfied with nothing short of complete independence. If ever there was a time for negotiation with Spain on any other basis than independence it has gone by. It would be a monumental wrong against the Cuban people, who have suffered calamities and miseries, torture and privation unexampled in this century outside of the annals of Spanish warfare, for their country to be robbed of the prize of liberty now almost within grasp. It would be an outrage against the principles for which the founders of this republic struggled so successfully and devotedly that the government of the nation which they founded should pervert its powers to the rescue of a decrepit European despotism, now tottering on the verge of dissolution. Any such proposition should be, and would be, justly resented as an insult by the Cubans themselves, and in their resentment they would be sustained by the American people.

If Mr. Cleveland harbors any design such as Gen. Bradley T. Johnson suggests, the sooner he dismisses it the better it will be for his own reputation and for the record of an administration already dishonored beyond any since that of Buchanan.—The Mail and Express.

The Bicycle at Funerals.

Two puzzled subscribers recently sent a letter of inquiry to "The Indianapolis Journal," which that excellent paper answers in a way that does credit to its head and heart. The letter came from the pretty little suburb of Philadelphia, about twenty miles from Indianapolis, and with that friendly confidence which ought to beat in the bosoms of all subscribers even when they are puzzled. It asked the editor if it would be all right to ride a bicycle to the funeral of a deceased connection, provided, of course, you keep behind the hearse. In this question is revealed the existence of a new and unsuspected social problem created by the bicycle, with peculiar elements of complexity about it that well might baffle the wisdom of even the editor. The question is not simply whether mourners might properly attend a funeral on a bicycle. Though hedged about with difficulties, such a question is susceptible of an answer by a plain, and the simple categorical method. As, for instance, the bicycle is a vehicle. It is proper to attend a funeral riding in or on a vehicle; therefore, etc. Or, adopting another premise: It is improper to attend a funeral on a vehicle not drawn by horses. The bicycle is such a vehicle. Therefore, etc. It is evident that a great deal could be said in support of either one of these premises, and, whichever side he espoused, an editor could be reasonably sure of receiving the endorsement of "Old Subscriber," "Constant Reader" and perhaps even a "Vox Populi."

But the question presented to "The Journal" is not of this elementally simple character. It contains involutions calculated to make the stoutest editorial heart feel like confessing its weakness. The bicycle may or may not be the proper vehicle for the mourners at a funeral, but, however that broad general principle may be decided, how shall we decide the case of a man who wants to ride a bicycle at a funeral of a distant connection by marriage, and who proposes to keep behind the hearse? Even if the connection were simply a connection of any sort, the problem would be hard enough. But a "distant connection by marriage" seems almost to bring us face to face with intellectual chaos, where every attempt at rational thought leads into a logical cul-de-sac. Does a distance of connection, in itself, when effected by marriage modify any rule as to the wheel? It may finally be adopted. Shall we say that a man must not attend the funeral of his brother on a bicycle, while he may do so if the funeral is that of his first wife's second cousin? And then the condition of keeping "behind the hearse" adds to our difficulty; for it forces us to contemplate the wheelman as an essential part of the funeral cortege. Should he lag with "scorching" he might for the moment add an element of discord to the sad event, but he would soon cease to be a part of the funeral at all. He could proceed at once to the grave and wait there for the last rites. But if he should lag slowly behind the hearse of a distant connection by marriage, what judgment shall we pronounce concerning him? What indeed? He is an Ishmael, with a large H, and a Problem with a large P, surrounded by the treacherous chasms of logic, to venture in which is fraught with danger, or, to change the figure, he is a Burning Question as unquenchable as the Man in the Iron Mask, or the Author of Junius.

It argues great courage, therefore, on the part of "The Indianapolis Journal" that it seriously attempts to answer the question propounded to it. In effect, it says that people must be buried whether their "connection" is married or single or no. And if the survivors can get to the spot only on bicycles, why, there you are. It sees nothing about the combination of wheel and woe, and for that it deserves honorable mention. Then it goes on to talk out red and yellow sweaters, jockey caps and bloomers, as out of keeping with a funeral of any sort. Undoubtedly it has a correct view of the case. On the other hand the conventional garments of mourning seem hardly adapted for riding on a wheel. Here is an opportunity for some genius to evolve a funeral costume for bicycle riders that, while adapted to the wheel, will fully harmonize with the occasion.

Seriously, as a question as this, grotesque though it may seem, is a striking evidence of the way in which the bicycle is revolutionizing social life. To ride to a funeral on a bicycle strikes us at first as incongruous, if not inherently so. The use of horses, drawn by horses, at funerals will seem as objectionable if it had not become sanctioned by custom. Social life is being continually modified by new devices and appliances, and many customs which we take for granted today are a part of the fundamental order of society which will light their way into recognition just as the bicycle is doing now.—(New York Tribune.

Popular Vote Will Decide.

We trust there will be no straddle at St. Louis. We want to see either a straight silver or gold platform, and silver delegates should see that either one or the other is forced upon the convention. It is quite certain that the Chicago convention will be for silver, and that the nominee will be informed by the Silver and Populist party, whether one which meet later is for bimetallism. A square fight between gold and silver candidates is what the country wants, and then the popular vote will decide the issue.—(Durango Herald.

Perversity.

"That jest shows the contrariness of politicians," said Farmer Cornfossel, as he finished an account of an unsuccessful interviewing attempt.

"What's the matter?" asked his wife.

"When they don't got nothin' ter say they'll talk like it was fur dear life; an' ez soon ez they gits somethin' on their minds they don't like ter hear about they jest quoe claims."

A Lingering Doubt.

The New York Commercial Advertiser has so soon commenced to urge the people to elect gold Congressmen this year. Has that great paper a lingering fear that McKinley, though elected on a gold platform, would fail to veto a free coinage bill if passed by Congress? So cautious are people made by a sample of the gold variety.—(Leadville Herald Democrat.

Time for Concession.

There must be no division of the free silver boys in the coming campaign. It is a time for patriotism and concessions all around.—(Grand Junction Star-Times.

As Dr. Preston is meeting with such splendid success in the treatment of consumption, it is to be hoped that he will reconsider his intention to leave Colorado Springs, and remain here indefinitely.

St. John Bros., the sanitary plumbers, have an ad. that should interest everyone. Read their advertisement regarding the heating of houses, which are worth considering by those who contemplate anything in that line.

Barrett & Chapin are just placing on the market a choice line of textilines, the best [illegible] for the money. Call at Vrooman's, of Williamette and Nevada avenues, or at Willow park. See their advertisement for further particulars.

Nob Hill is spreading up to prominence [illegible] residence site and a great many inquiries have been made for those beautiful lots. Parties addressing the Excelsior Realty company will receive any information in reference to this property.

FLEETING SHOW.

Stories and Gossip Picked Up on the Streets.

[illegible] an anonymous person who signs himself "Sufferer." He left a note with a marked copy on the front steps of this office [illegible] his identity. He requests us to tell how a newspaper should be conducted. He thinks it a nuisance that the readers should be bored with certain news items, and he asks all that should not have a place in a paper to be left out. In a word, he wants to know what he did not like. Everybody knows Bob was right. He would have none of this. As items of sport, such as he called them, would like to be thrown out. Social matters were to be cut and a number of personals. An article from Chicago what the Denver Post will do was just what he did. Our correspondent, however, leaves as good news as crimes and accounts of fires. He has no objection to long articles, nearly all papers have to use them to fill up columns. He remarks on the [illegible] notices and other matter that is in the nature of advertisements. He would really like to see a paper that he would get out some day. He would need to own a better mine than any in Cripple Creek if he kept running very long. Why is it that people cannot understand that a newspaper is a business proposition and that its province is, to sell the news. Some people want to buy sporting news, some want mining, some want the markets and all intelligent persons want the general to give each render a little of what he wants. It can't all be meat to suit one palate. Even the children of Israel grew tired of manna and of swarms of quail. A modern newspaper should be taken like a big hotel dinner. The guest of a large hotel who tries to eat his way through every dish on the bill of fare will soon destroy his stomach. He learns to pick out a few dishes that may please him. Read your newspaper the same way, oh my poor "Sufferer." If you don't like the bill of fare, change your boarding house.

The other night there seemed to be a terrible row going on on the streets. One fellow was hanging on to a buggy wheel and swearing like a pirate. In the vehicle was another fellow and a girl. In the height of the mangle, the girl slipped out and away down the street. In the excitement the facts came out. It seems that one young man and his best girl had gone out for a buggy ride. On the way back he got out of the buggy at Colorado City and went in to buy a glass of beer. The second fellow came along and ran off with the girl, buggy and all. The first fellow came out, and seeing what had happened, got on a car and beat them home. He caught them on the street and stopped the horse. I did not wait to see the end.

The Midland road has among its orders to switchmen one to the effect that after throwing a switch for an incoming train, that they must step across the track and remain there until the train passes. The object is to get them away from the switch, and there is a very good reason for it. It seems that in the history of railroading there are a great many instances of where switchmen have become rattled. They throw a switch correctly but for some reason, as the train approaches suddenly grab the lever and deliberately do the wrong thing. It has happened in several instances that trains have been run together on side tracks in this way. Why it is cannot be explained. It is to avoid this that the order is in force, for if a man has crossed the track, he has no time to get back to the switch if attacked by a sudden hallucination of this kind.

I have felt for a long time that the sermon is no longer the important thing in church services, but the following notice in a little church paper, which which was handed around to the congregation last Sunday at a prominent church, was rather a shock: "Services of worship and preaching in this house this evening at 8 o'clock. There will be instrumental music by the Misses Smith and Jones, the choir will render several anthems, and the pastor expects to preach."

It must have been with a sense of personal loss that every one who saw "Pudd'nhead Wilson" heard of Frank Mayo's death the past week. Mayo was not acting in Pudd'nhead. It was his own kindly nature that shone out. I have in many people in the theatrical world, and, as a class, I am not inclined to be impressed with them; but Mayo was an exception. He was a fine gentleman, as well as an accomplished actor, but the fickle public was a long time getting to the point where it understood him. It is only in the last year or more that they had begun to pet him as they have Joe Jefferson so long. When I wrote the night after he played here that Pudd'nhead would some day be a tradition of the stage, like Colonel Mulberry Sellers, I had no idea that so soon would it be only a memory. The costume worn by Mayo as Pudd'nhead was a study of a bygone decade. I asked him about it, and he said that it was copied from a notable character that he knew in California in years gone by.

Treasurer Hale got the following reply the other day to a notice sent to a prominent lawyer of the city that he must pay a poll tax:

May 27th, 1896.

City Treasurer, Colorado Springs, Colo.:

Dear Sir—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your kind invitation, dated the 22nd of May, 1896, requesting my presence at seven o'clock in the forenoon, on the 9th day of June, 1896, in front of the City Barn, on West Cimarron street, in this city, with a shovel.

Inasmuch as I don't own a shovel, and won't know what to do with it if I had one, I beg to enclose you the sum of $1.75, with which to make the purchase of a shovel for the use of a more skillful artist. Respectfully yours.

Ladies' and misses' fine tan Oxfords; price, style and quality sure to suit, at P. A. McCurdy's, 15 South Tejon.

If it required an annual outlay of $100 to insure a family against any serious consequences from an attack of bowel complaint during the year, there are many who would feel it their duty to pay it, that they could not afford to risk their lives, and those of their family for such an amount. Any one can get this insurance for 25 cents, that being the price of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from an attack of bowel complaint before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. One or two doses of this remedy will cure any ordinary case. It never fails. Can you afford to take the risk for so small an amount?

"Amen."

It is entertaining to watch the effort of the young brain to put some meaning into a wholly strange word. His modus operandi here is to make what we should call a pun, assimilating the sound, or at least a part of it, to some familiar word sound. A little boy between 3 and 4 had apparently thought about the sound "A men" at the end of prayers and had decided that it had to do with men. So having occasion to put a family of white china rabbits through their prayers he made them end up by saying instead of "A-men," "A-rabbits."—National Review.

EVENTS AT ST. LOUIS.

Platt Forces Won An Unexpected Victory in the Contest Before the National Committee.

DIVIDED SENTIMENT CAUSED AN ALL-NIGHT SESSION.

Vice Presidency an Element of Uncertainty.

GON. EVANS' CANDIDACY.

Mckinley Men Will Control the Second Place.

RESOLUTION CHAIRMANSHIP.

It is Said Ex-Governor Foraker Will Be the Choice for That Important Place--Temporary Officers of the Convention--Fairbanks of Indiana Selected as Temporary Chairman--Colonel Johnson of Minnesota Chosen Secretary--Quay Obtained a Place on the National Committee as a Proxy.

St Louis, June 13—The principal feature of to-day's developments was the unexpected victory won by the Platt forces in the contest before the national committee over the delegates from the Twelfth New York city district. By a vote of 22 to 25 the committee decided that Cornelius Bliss and S. Van Rensselaer Kruger (anti-Platt) were not entitled to a full vote each.

On the motion, however, that Messrs Carroll and Barnes (Platt men) were properly elected, so strong a division of sentiment was created that it became apparent that an all-night session might be necessary to complete this and the two other New York cases.

The only element of uncertainty in the Presidential race besides the financial plank, is the convention's choice for second place. Ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York refuses to permit the use of his name and advances reasons why he could not and would not accept the nomination. Mr. H. Clay Evans of Tennessee is still a strong candidate, and will probably receive a large vote in the convention.

Mr. Hobart of New Jersey is also well regarded, and the New Jersey politicians are working earnestly in his behalf. It is obvious, however, that the Vice President will be named by the McKinley forces. They are easily masters of the situation, and the man of their choice will be the one to whom this honor will be given. At present they are undecided as to the course they will pursue. There is a general disposition among them to select an Eastern man and it is for this reason that an incipient "boom" was started by some of the number to-day for ex-Governor Dingley of Maine. Senator Hayley of Connecticut is well regarded by them, but at present they are more interested in the platform and other matters of detail than the Vice-Presidency.

So far as the platform is concerned, there is apparently no doubt that it will declare against the free coinage of silver, except by international agreement at any ratio, and for the maintenance of the present standard. On such a platform Mr. Chauncey M. Depew says New York State can be carried by 200,000 majority.

Temporary Officers.

The selection of temporary officers for the convention had been made the special order for 2 p. m., but it was considerably after that time before the committee got together again after recess. They then got down to business immediately.

On motion of Mr. De Young of California, seconded by Mr. Kerens of Missouri, Mr C. W. Fairbanks of Indiana was unanimously selected as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention

The committee laid on the table a request from ex-Secretary Richard Thompson of Indiana, asking a postponement of action on the temporary chairmanship until his arrival this evening, and went on with its work.

Col. C. W. Johnson of Minnesota, who was secretary of the national convention of 1892 at Minneapolis, was unanimously chosen secretary of this convention

Foraker and the Resolutions.

Ex-Governor Foraker of Ohio, it is said to-night, will be the choice of the McKinley men for the chairmanship of the Committee on Resolutions. The purpose of this is to enable him to appoint the sub-committee which will draft the platform and which in turn, it is understood will request him to act as its chairman, also, ex-officio. Some of the New England men desire that the chairmanship shall be given to Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, but the McKinley people say that no necessity exists for making this selection. No doubt exists that the platform will declare unmistakably for sound money. The only uncertainty is as to the phraseology.

It is generally believed, however, that it will oppose any suggestion of free coinage at any ratio, and demand the maintenance of the present standard. It is also asserted that the platform will contain a reference to Cuba. It will express the sympathy of the Republican party with the Cuban patriots and condemn President Cleveland for having failed to recognize their belligerency.

A Sensation.

A few moments after the convention to-morrow this evening a decided sensation was created by the appearance of Senator Matthew S. Quay of Pennsylvania. With a nod and a smile for the friends that he recognized on his right as he came in, he walked with a jaunty air up the aisle, shook hands with Chairman Carter, seated himself at the corner of the secretary's table, reached for a sheet of foolscap and commenced to write rapidly. He had hardly finished writing when Col Perry Carson, the colored national committeeman from the District of Columbia came rapidly into the hall and found his way to the rear of the Pennsylvania Senator.

The latter ceased writing on the moment, and Col Carson, taking the pen from his hand, attached his signature to the sheet upon which the Senator had written. Thereupon the colored committeeman withdrew. A few moments later it developed that the document was a proxy under which Senator Matthew S. Quay was "authorized to sit in the national committee as the proxy for Perry Carson" until such proxy was withdrawn. The Senator took a seat in the front row of the committee and listened with interest to the presentation of the remainder of the Texas contests.

"Yes I am a national committeeman for the time being," said the Senator to a response to an inquiry from from the representative of the United Press. "I am here on suffrage, as it were, as I told the proxy of Perry Carson. I shall stay here during the consideration of the contests from Pennsylvania, and may be long as Carson does not come out.

"I am foot loose for the rest of the night," said Col Carson a few moments later, "and am glad of it. I have given my proxy to Senator Quay, and he can use it as long as he wants to. He can stay there until the adjournment she die before I am likely to put him out."

VICE PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

Influence Exerted in Behalf of Dingley of Maine.

St Louis June 13.—The latest gossip around Ohio headquarters is that which connects the name of Nelson Dingley of Maine with the nomination for the vice-presidency.

The Ohio politicians who are using their influence to effect Mr. Dingley's selection believe it would be gratifying to the New England friends of Mr. Reed. It would, they believe, be equally gratifying to the sound money Republicans of the east.

Mr Dingley is the chairman of the Ways and Means committee of the present House of Representatives and was associated with Mr. McKinley in the 51st Congress in the preparation of the tariff bill, which bears the name of the Ohio candidate.

PREPARATIONS AT CHICAGO.

Getting Ready for the Democratic National Convention.

Chicago, June 13.—Chairman Harrity, Secretary Sheerin, Architect Canda, Colonel Shorley of Kentucky, Colonel Prather of Missouri, Benj T. Cable of Illinois, E. C. Wall of Wisconsin and Colonel J. I. Martin the sergeant-at-arms, attended the meeting of the national Democratic sub-committee in charge of convention arrangements at the Palmer house today. The session lasted until evening and at its conclusion Messrs. Canda, Harrity, Sheehy and Sheerin visited the Coliseum to see how it looked after the two weeks' show and to go over the details as to the seating exits, aisles and other minor matters which have to be perfected with Architects Canda and Roman before the work of preparing the interior can begin.

ACTS OF JUSTICE.

Indemnities Paid to Subjects of Foreign Nations.

Washington, June 13.—The United States government performed an act of justice today under its treaty provisions in paying some indemnities for injuries done to subjects of foreign nations by American citizens. Secretary Olney gave to Baron Fava, the Italian ambassador, a check for $5000 to be turned over to the families of four Italians who were killed by a mob at Walsenburg, Colorado last year, and Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British ambassador, was given a check for $1,855 for the relief of the Dawson family, British subjects who were badly handled in Nebraska, and $1,000 for one Bain the purser of an English ship, who was shot in the leg during the levee riots in New Orleans last fall. The money was appropriated by Congress.

TAKING IT FOR GRANTED.

Preparations Going on to Celebrate McKinley's Nomination.

Canton, O., June 13.—Should Governor McKinly receive the nomination—a circumstance which no Cantonian seems to doubt—there will be the biggest celebrations in this town ever witnessed. Preparations are going forward just as though McKinley had been named.

The Patriotic Party also held a meeting with representative citizens and commanders of G. A. R. posts today. The whistle of every factory in town will blow and every bell will ring as soon as the announcement is made, by firing a big cannon. City Hall bell will be rung by wire from the St. Louis convention hall.

A party of Massachusetts bankers and manufacturers called on Major McKinley this afternoon. Governor Lippett, of Rhode Island, was also a caller.

Lippit Wants It.

Cleveland, O., June 13.—Chas Warren Lippitt, governor of Rhode Island, who called on Major McKinley to-day, is priming himself for the vice-presidential nomination. This evening "Little Rhody's" governor gave it out that he wants of the vice-presidency and wanted it badly and that he is going after it hard. To-morrow Governor Lippitt will take the train for St. Louis and when he gets there will open headquarters at the St. Nicholas.

"We little fellows," said he to the United Press to-night, "must step aside if the big ones like Reed and Morton want the office. But if they don't, then I will take it."

Ex-Governor Felch Dead.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 13.—Ex-Governor Alpheus Felch died this afternoon. He was born in Maine in 1806, was admitted to the bar at Bangor in 1829, and practised three years at Houlton, Me. Then he went west and in Ann Arbor found his place of permanent abode. He was elected governor of Michigan in 1846, and was elected to the United States Senate for a full six years' term in 1847. Afterwards he served as president of the commission which settled Spanish and Mexican land claims in California. He was for many years on the board of regents of the Michigan University.

Sound Money Democrats.

Chicago, June 13.—A convention of sound money Democrats who held at Central Music hall tonight—A sound money platform was adopted and resolutions endorsing Grover Cleveland were passed. Delegates were named to go to the state convention and will contest the seats of delegates selected recently by the free silver Democrats. Speeches were made by ex-Judge Martin of this city, ex-Congressman Bynum of Indiana and others.

Attempted Suicide.

New York, June 13.—Patrick Sullivan, 27 years of age, a painter of No 132 Washington avenue, Brooklyn, jumped from the middle of the Brooklyn bridge into East river shortly after 5 o'clock to-night. He was picked up by a passing tug and taken to the foot of East Twenty-sixth street. There he was placed under arrest on the charge of attempting suicide. The only injury he sustained was a slight sprain to the right leg, which is thought to have been caused by striking against one of the cables of the bridge as he jumped over.

Well Contested Events.

Utica, N. Y., June 13.—State circuit bicycle races were held to-day at Ilion and it was a bunch of well-contested events. In the final of one open professional race Rudd made a beautiful spurt down the home stretch, passing Sanger a hundred feet from the tape and received first place. In the title race he started at the scratch with Sanger and passed him a half, making the first mile in 2:19 and bringing him up to the bunch. At the finish of the race Hilbert pulled out from the bunch and ran into Sanger's rear wheel a few feet from the tape. Hilbert fell and Sanger lost the race.

CUBAN WAR NEWS.

Belief that a Fierce Engagement Has Been Fought--Weyler Will Modify the Plan of Campaign.

Havana, June 13.—A heavy cannonading and musketry fire has been heard in the city of Puerto Principe for the last two days and has caused considerable alarm among the residents. It is believed that a fierce engagement has been fought between the insurgents and a Spanish force of 3000 troops under General Castellano. No definite information in regard to the fight has yet been received.

Advices from Puerto Principe state that the insurgent General Gomez, becoming incensed at the conduct of some subordinate insurgent leaders for levying and collecting taxes and exporting cattle and pocketing the proceeds, has ordered them court-martialed. Two of the culprits were summarily sentenced to death and shot. Several others were degraded.

A council of war was held at the Palace last night being attended by several Generals and Captain General Weyler. It was agreed, in view of the present condition of the country, caused by the rainy season, to modify the plan of campaign. Active operations will be conducted only when they are required in special cases. Precautions will be taken to protect the towns against possible attacks.

Rebels have made an unsuccessful attempt to destroy with dynamite a culvert on the railway near Campo Florida, close to Havana. They also exploded a dynamite cartridge under the railway bridge, near Duran, province of Havana.

Jose Antonio Yznaga, an American, who has been acting as assistant correspondent of the New York Herald has been ordered to leave Cuba.

GREEN MT. FALLS.

Arrivals and Events of the Week at the Popular Resort.

Special to the Gazette:

Green Mountain Falls, June 13.—Among the arrivals at the Green Mountain House the past week have been the following: Judge and Mrs Henry Thompson, Elmira N. Y., Mrs Z Edwards and two daughters, Elmira, N. Y., Howard W Warner and family, Pueblo, Leonard G Murphy, Kansas City; Miss Hannah Meoney and Miss Laura Carrigan, New York City; Miss Carrie Rice, Miss Lizzie Malmi, Miss Julia Malmi, Miss Delhantey, Los Angeles; Charles Thomas, Grand Junction, and Robert Doolittle, Denver.

The Saturday evening hop was well attended. A number of the guests of the Ute Park hotel were present.

The Colorado Springs High School Cadets will camp here all next week. During their stay Manager Clark of the Green Mountain House has arranged to give a hop every evening.

Judge Thompson entertained Mr and Mrs Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Curby, Miss Miss Ryan and Miss Rogers at cards last Thursday at the Green Mountain House.

Mr. A Gauthier has returned to the Falls after a few weeks' stay in Denver.

THREE'S A CROWD.

Alleged Filibuster, Spanish Warship and British Gunboat.

Kingston, Jamaica, June 13.—The alleged filibustering steamer Laurada, which arrived at Port Antonio some days ago, after, it is said, having landed a large quantity of munitions of war on the Cuban coast, sailed to-day. As soon as she left port she was followed by a Spanish warship, which had been awaiting her departure. Abreast of the Spanish vessel was a British gunboat. If the Spaniard fires on the Laurada when she is in British waters, he will have the British gunboat to deal with.

BOYNTON SAID NO.

The Much Advertised Finish Fight Failed to Come Off.

Special to the Gazette.

Victor, Colo., June 13—The much talked of bare knuckle prize fight between Jack Crowley and Rudwell McKenzie did not come off tonight as advertised. Sheriff Boynton sent a message to Deputy Sheriff Lupton ordering him to stop the fight. After Lupton had announced his determination to prevent a bare knuckle fight, Mayor Doyle climbed upon the stage and said that Victor was fully able to manage its own affairs and said that a finish fight had been advertised and that he would not permit any other kind of a contest to take place, and advised the 500 assembled sports to go to the box office and get back their money and go home.

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Philadelphia-Louisville.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 13.—The victory of the Louisville club today was well deserved and was due largely to the pitching of Frazier, which was simply wonderful. Only five hits were made off him. Grade getting three of them. Score, Philadelphia 1; Louisville 3.

Baltimore-Chicago.

Baltimore, Md., June 13.—The Chicago found both Foul and Corbett to their liking and taking a commanding lead in the first inning, made a runaway race of it. Only two hits were made off Terry until the sixth inning opened. Score: Baltimore 4, Chicago 17.

Boston-Cincinnati.

Boston, Mass., June 13.—Three had the Bostons completely at his mercy today. In four innings they retired in order. There was sharp fielding on both sides. The visitors hit Sullivan hard and ran bases with great dash. Score, Boston, 9; Cincinnati 7.

New York-Pittsburg.

New York, June 13.—The Pittsburg made it three straight today. Hawley was forced to retire at the end of the third in which he sent six men to first base on ball, hit one batter and had two wild pitches. Clark's fumble of Lyon's bounder in the ninth inning lost the game. Score: New York, 8, Pittsburg, 10.

Brooklyn-Cleveland.

Brooklyn, June 13.—Foutz's team succeeded in winning the final game of the series from Cleveland at Eastern Park this afternoon and making it three straight. It was anybody's game until the last man was retired. The home team's victory is due to timely batting. Score: Brooklyn, 6, Cleveland, 5.

Washington-St. Louis.

Washington, D. C., June 13.—Washington-St. Louis game postponed, rain.

Gold Reserve.

Washington, June 13.—The treasury gold reserve at the close of business today stood at $104,956,957. The day's withdrawals were $40,700.

PROGRESS AT CRIPPLE CREEK

Good Strikes Are Almost Daily Occurances.

Busy scenes are now being enacted in and around the new strike on Bald Eagle. Everyone is working to [illegible] capacity and considerable [illegible] ing saved for shipment. The property has already made two [illegible] from which the returns have not yet been received. The ore is coming from a long open trench at present but a force of men has been set to work sinking a shaft in the center of the ore chute.

Purchased the Munger Lease.

Maloney of Anchoria-Leland fame has purchased the Munger lease on the Orphan Boy group of claims on Bull hill. He will take charge of the property immediately and begin extensive mining operations. The property has been producing some very good ore lately, and it is thought that with improved mining apparatus Mr Maloney will make a big mine. The price paid for the lease does not be learned to-night.

It is currently reported that an option has been given on the Hawk group of claims near the foot of Bull hill at Grassy station. The option calls for $20,000 due in 60 days. A little payment has already been made to bind the bargain.

The Goleta Gold Mining company made a small shipment from the Idaho lode belonging to the Work company. Returns received from part of this shipment showed values of $[illegible] per ton. The force of men has lately been reduced somewhat and at present work is going on only in a small way.

The Eagle Gold Mining company has forfeited its lease on the Comet lode belonging to the Isabella company. Failure to perform the necessary amount of work each month is assigned as the reason for cancelling the lease.

NEW SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT.

T. L. Evans of Jackson Michigan the Successful Candidate.

The school board yesterday morning met and selected a new superintendent to succeed Mr Patterson. They decided upon Prof. T. L. Evans, of Jackson Mich. The selection was made after the most careful investigation by the board. The new superintendent is a man about [illegible] years of age, and comes with the most flattering recommendations. There were 60 applications for the position. He is a graduate of Olivet College in Michigan and also of the Michigan State Normal school. He has also taken special work at Yale, Harvard and Princeton. He has been a school superintendent for the past nine years and for four years has had charge of the schools of Jackson. He had been re-elected this year to that position at an advanced salary, but would come here because of his wife's failing health. Mr. Evans is said to be a live and progressive man who not only understands school management, but will take a personal interest in the students.

The board also elected Miss Marshall of Opelousas City, Kansas, teacher of English, to succeed Miss Geraldes. Miss Marshall is a sister of Mrs State of this city.

At the meeting it was also decided that the board will spend $[illegible] in fitting up the school grounds at the Powell building. The Village Improvement society has also added a like amount. The board hopes to be able to do something this year in the way of beautifying the High School grounds.

OUR SOLDIERS.

National Troops Now Encamped at Broadmoor.

Part of the troops that are to spend the summer months in this section of the country at target practice arrived in the city at 5 o'clock yesterday morning and marched out to Broadmoor where they will be encamped during their stay here.

The body of troops consists of one battalion of infantry, consisting of about 240 men and a troop of cavalry of 50 man and 16 officers. Col Burham is in command of this part of the regiment with the following officers: Capt Quentin, Capt. Van Orsdale, Capt Worden, Capt Young, Lieut. Jackson, Lieut. Miller, Lieut. Goodin, Lieut Nichols, Lieut Wallace, Lieut Rees, Lieut Hornsbaum, Lieut. Peirce, Captain Powler, with the assistance of Lieut. Sells, is in command of the cavalry. There are also six camp wagons and the ambulance.

The detachment is at present in camp on the west side of the Casino lake, but early this morning will move to a place nearer the shooting grounds. They were obliged to locate at the present place owing to the fact that the pipe line into their permanent camp was not completed upon their arrival but was finished late yesterday afternoon.

The whole of yesterday was spent in [illegible] after their march from the [illegible] troopers are the best looking lot of [illegible] seen in the city for [illegible] The troop color is [illegible] the best condition [illegible] and showing that the [illegible] care. Some of the officers have their own horses with them.

[illegible] tents had been pitched very [illegible] the men in the private tents were [illegible] they were not long [illegible] the shore of the lake. There happened to be a couple of boats there [illegible] some pebbles made [illegible] progress. Other [illegible] that way to the same creek and it was [illegible] of a mental wish that [illegible] Some of the officers also have their favorite dogs, which they seem to some pieces through the rows of tents, and [illegible] quarter to runs across some kind of a chase. They are mostly of the bird dog [illegible] and it is during persons who attempt to cover the feet of an officer during his dreams.

The camp is located about a mile south of the Casino and is now in readiness for [illegible] days shot. The detachment will remain about a month and will then be relieved by the other portion of the regiment which is still at Fort Logan.

As soon as the camp is well settled which will be about Monday the officers will be pleased to have the public call from inspection of their quarters. The camp will be located for a very short time, from the [illegible] when the target season is expected it will no doubt present a very lively appearance in the morning while officers in their uniforms.

The targets for the shooting are located at about the foot of Cheyenne mountain on the west slope. A large trench some hundred feet in length has been dug in which the men who watch the targets will remain during the shooting. The guns used by the company will carry about three miles but the practice will be carried on about a half to three-quarters of a mile from the targets.

ALUMNIA BNQUET.

High School Graduates Enjoyed a Double Feast.

The Alumni of Colorado Springs High school now numbers a goodly body of men and women, and growing larger every year. Last evening the association met for the first time around the festal board. The occasion was the first annual banquet and it was given at the Alta Vista hotel.

Preceding the banquet the annual meeting was held in the parlors of the hotel. Officers were selected for the year as follows: President Horace Cooper, class of '[illegible] first vice-president Susie Harris, '[illegible] second vice-president Clare Thomas, '[illegible] secretary, Maud Luark '94, treasurer Fred Abernathy '94, directors, George Perry, '94, Frank Heron '[illegible] and Verner Johnson '[illegible]

There were fifty-five guests seated at the banquet table. The handsome dining room of the Alta Vista had been still more beautified by a profusion of flowers and with the colors of the class of '96. The scene was one that will not soon be forgotten by those who were present. Among the guests were members of the school board and faculty who had a table of their own.

Mr and Mrs. Stevens of the Alta Vista had spared no efforts to make the menu and all the arrangements worthy of the occasion, and at the close of the banquet they were given a hearty vote of thanks. The repast was dainty and splendidly served.

President Harry McAllister, jr was the toastmaster, and right nobly did he perform his duties. The speeches were bright and pointed and well worthy the occasion. The programme of toasts was as follows:

The High School ..... E R Clark
The Board of Education, John Lennox
"Co-operation" in Education, [illegible] Stoll, by B Grafton
Class of '[illegible] ..... Lillian Johnson, '96
Alumni ..... Bert Linn, '95
The Children ..... Frank Heron, '97
Alumni ..... Frank C. Willey, '87
The Ladies ..... Fred Abernathy, '94

PIONEERS ORGANIZE.

Officers Elected and Preparations Made to Celebrate.

An organization was effected yesterday of a pioneers association, and steps were taken in the direction of the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the city. A meeting was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Pikes Peak club which was attended by a number of the pioneers of 1871. Among those who were present were Anthony Ford, A. Z. Sheldon, B. F. Crowell, B. S. Hall, Henry Walker, S. M. Buzzard, Levi Welton, W. A. Low, Matt France, D. R. Holden, David M. Shane, Irving Howbert and Peter Durfee.

Mr. Sheldon presided over the meeting and Mr France was the secretary. Upon motion it was decided that there should be a "Old Pike's Peak County Pioneers" association, and it was voted to proceed immediately to the election of officers.

The officers selected are as follows: Matt France, president, A. Z. Sheldon, vice-president, M. B. Irvine, secretary and treasurer.

Upon motion of Mr France it was decided that the annual meeting shall be held on the 21st of July and that notices shall be sent to all pioneers of the State.

A motion was made and carried that all persons who have been residents of the State for 25 years shall be eligible to membership.

By a unanimous vote Mr Irving Howbert was asked to prepare a paper giving a sketch of the early history of the Pike's Peak region to be read at the annual meeting.

It was agreed that the officers elected shall be a committee to make all preparations for the celebration of July 4.

AT THE UTE.

Favorite Ute Pass Hotel is Now Open.

Special to the Gazette

Ute Park, Colo., June 13, 1896.

The Ute hotel with Mr. J. G. Clark, of Chicago as manager, is now open and business is fair for so early in the season. Manager Clark promises some fine entertainments this season for his guests and a hop every Saturday night. The Ute lake, but a short walk from the hotel, is well supplied with trout and the guest can enjoy some rare sport with the rod. The hotel is located at Ute Park, a beautiful little station on the main line of the Colorado Midland railroad, where all trains stop. The scenery, walks and drives from this hotel are unsurpassed anywhere in the Rockies. The hotel has been put in thorough repair, and the water and air is the finest in the mountains.

Manager Clark will be ably assisted by Mr Robert W. Taylor, a popular young hotel man who was formerly at the Cliff house. Taylor will take pleasure in driving parties from Colorado Springs and Manitou.

Among the arrivals during the past week are Judge and Mrs. Burton, H. A. Kunan, S. R. Hance, Dr. and Mrs. Winternety, Colorado Springs; C. Linkenbock, St. Paul, Miss Bessie Adams, Miss Isabelle Adams, Mr. and Mrs Hosford, J. Levy, Ben Curtis, Jno Evans, A. L. Brooks, Denver; Mr and Mrs. Burrows, child and maid, Master Jno Burrows, St. Louis, Mo.; Mr and Mrs. Loofsbro, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mr and Mrs A. H. McKay, New York; Dr. A. B. Smith, Prof Wm. S. Baxter, Chicago; Master Toodles Clark, Denver; W. C. Bailey, Geo. H. Brinkerhoff, Cripple Creek.

NEW CITY DIRECTORY.

What It Shows In Regard to Our Population.

WE ARE A BIG TOWN NOW.

By the Least Calculation We Have Over 20,000 People — Good American Names Predominate in the 6,300 Recorded.

The publication of a new city directory is an event of considerable importance. It is not only a matter of moment to business men and others that there should be a complete and accurate list of the names and addresses of residents of the city, but the directory also serves as a census and a new one is always carefully scanned for testimony regarding the city's growth its present population and the development of the city along industrial and other business lines.

The new directory for 1896 issued this week from the press of the Gazette Printing company, is altogether the best, as it is the largest work of the kind that has ever been issued in Colorado Springs. The two years which have elapsed since the publication of the last directory have been years of growth, and while the book of 1894 shows many changes of address it is rather its lack of information regarding newcomers which has made it out of date.

Many Mining Companies

One of the first things that will strike the reader of the new directory is the number of mining companies. Especial care has been given to make this list complete and accurate. The names of the companies are given alphabetically in the body of the work, and besides they are arranged in a separate table at the end of the book. There are 272 of them and under each name is a list of the officers of the company and the address of the transfer office.

Estimating the Population.

But it is in the population, undoubtedly, that the chief public interest will center. The first 10 pages of the new directory contain by actual count 258 names not including any names of firms or companies, or an average of 25.8 names to a page. There are in the directory 247 solid pages of names making the total number of names recorded approximately 6,300.

Determining the number by which this should be multiplied in order to get a correct estimate of the city's population, there is a difference of opinion. Some cities use a factor as high as 5, and this would give Colorado Springs a population of over 30,000. Even a casual inspection of the directory pages would, however convince one that this number is too high. There are too many unmarried men and women whose names are recorded to allow five inhabitants for each name. Indeed experience has shown in other Western cities that 2½ to 1 is about the right ratio of population to directory names. Using this number to multiply with, and the estimated population is 20,250.

More Exact Figures.

But there is a still more exact method by which this calculation may be made. The first 10 pages of the 1890 directory contained 268 names, and there were 130 lines in the book. This was a total of 26,040. But the census taken in that year by the United States gave Colorado Springs a population of 11,29[illegible]. If the same proportion to population now as then, and there is no reason to suppose a change, the proportion is 26,040 : 11,29[illegible] :: 20,250.

The figures then, 20,250 represent the present population of Colorado Springs as nearly as it is possible to estimate it from the new directory.

It should of course be remembered that in all these estimates it is only the permanent population which is considered and that the floating population, while constantly changing in individuals, remains in number about the same, and contributes a steady amount to the prosperity and revenues of the city.

Mostly Good Americans.

The new book will afford the usual opportunities for study to the curious on such matters. One thing which can hardly fail to strike even the hasty reader, is the absence of foreign names. There are very few indeed of those queer and outlandish patronymics which are the delight of the directory sharp, but on the contrary page after page of good straight American names. The most numerous of these is of course Smith. There are 38 of him and her, recorded in Colorado Springs. Johnson comes next with a score of 35 and Jones is a close third with 32. Other names of more than common frequency are Davis 6, Anderson 5, Miller 22, Moore 22, White 22, Brown 31, Williams 31, Thomas 28, Allen 21, and Martin 21. All these names, it will be noticed are those which are very seldom borne except by Americans and there are no others as numerous as these.

Classified Business.

A great many interesting points may be gathered from a study of the classified business directory at the end of the volume. Colorado Springs has the reputation of being preeminently a drug-store town, but there are only 10 of these necessary establishments, as compared with 12 grocries, so the number does not appear to be excessive.

The prominence of the mining stock business is shown by the 20 names of brokers and firms who record themselves as mining stock brokers, while the number of mining companies whose headquarters are in this city is nearly 50. The 31 attorneys also undoubtedly owe a considerable increase in their number to the rise of Cripple Creek and the subsequent litigation in El Paso county courts.

The coming of the bicycle is testified to by 10 bicycle dealers, a number which may seem large or small according to the point of view.

It is also worth noting that when The Gazette speaks of the hotels of the city it has full not less than 14 different establishments are referred to.

The book is a handsome one in appearance and so far as can be judged complete and accurate in all respects. Unusual care has been exercised in its compilation and arrangement and the result appears to be satisfactory.

Unlike former directories issued here, the present work is a directory of Colorado Springs alone, and does not include Colorado City and Manitou.

The new directory will be ready for distribution to subscribers the latter part of this week, and those desiring copies of the book who have not already given their orders should do so at once at The Gazette business office.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

What Some Prominent Citizens Say on the Subject.

The work of preparing for the flower festival has already begun, and a big meeting is to be held on Monday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce. It is to be hoped that the business men will take hold and push it so that we will have no reason to be ashamed of the celebration for 1896.

Mr. Walter C. Frost, who has been very much interested in both the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the city and the flower parade, has been making some investigations and has some excellent suggestions. The railroad men at Denver have informed him that they will hardly be able to make more than one low rate here, this year. In that case either the festival of the anniversary celebration will have to suffer. The anniversary is on July 21. Now, he suggests that we get a rate for a week or more and throw the two practically together. That would bring the festival early in August. He suggests that a number of the old Utes and Cheyenne Indians be brought here, and be allowed to renew acquaintances with the pioneers. They could be kept here for the flower show. Undoubtedly the United States troops can also be kept a week longer than their appointed time and together with the Indians would make a most interesting feature of the exhibition.

The result of bringing the two exhibitions together would be to keep the city full of people for some days. There are about as many flowers at that time as later in the month. Mr Frost and others will explain these ideas at the meeting on Monday.

Mr. Barnett's Views.

Knowing that Mr. Barnett of the Antlers was in California last spring and that he attended the flower festivals at Los Angeles and Santa Barbara, a representative of the Gazette had a talk with him yesterday on the subject and apropos to our approaching festival, Mr. Barnett said:

"I am sorry to see since my return home a lukewarmness in some quarters regarding the flower festival this year. It is true that last year there was a lack of co-operation in some directions which was very discouraging to those who were at the head of the festival and who gave their time and labor to make it a success. It will be most unfortunate if our citizens do not pull together in this matter, for it will simply mean that the festival will fall of the great and increasing success it ought to and can be made. The best Santa Barbara festival was an illustration of this. Two classes in the city had had some differences of opinion as to the festival, and one of them stayed out, with the result that it was a dismal failure of which the city was ashamed, especially after the magnificent success of the Los Angeles fiesta, which occurred soon after. At this latter everybody worked together and made it one of the finest affairs I ever saw—in fact I never in my life saw anything finer. The citizens subscribed $35,000 for the fiesta, which lasted four days. The first three were given up to pageants of various kinds, Indian performances, etc. The flower festival occurred the last day and was in all respects the culminating event. It was held in an enclosure, called the "Tribune" and viewed from grand stands on which were sold $10,000 worth of seats. The procession occurred entirely within this enclosure, there being no street procession, except in disbanding. Nevertheless, the town was handsomely decorated with bunting and illuminated with electricity. The decoration was elaborate and universal, even the boot-black stands showing that their owners entered into the spirit of the occasion.

"The flower parade was the grandest and most beautiful sight I ever beheld, and I doubt if there has ever been seen. Compared to it the New Orleans Mardi Gras, which I have attended, was a very tame affair indeed. There were seven brakes the handsomest I ever saw, and in addition all classes of turnout, drawn for the most part by superb horses and most elegantly decorated, together with equestrians and bicycles. There was of course no suggestion of business advertising in the parade. Los Angeles was well repaid for her enterprise and expenditure, as in itself the fiesta was a grand advertisement and in addition the town was crowded with people for close to two weeks. I was impressed as never before with the possibilities of our Colorado Springs festival and I sincerely trust that all our citizens will co-operate in making the coming festival the finest and most successful we have ever had."

Mr. Buckman's Opinion.

"What do I think of the flower festival?" said Mr. Buckman in reply to the Gazette man's query. "I think it is one of our very important attractions and should be made finer and more successful affair each year. Of course it means a great deal of work for a number of people, but it pays well.

"This morning as I watched the soldiers from Fort Logan marching down Cascade avenue to their camping grounds at Broadmoor, I was impressed with the thought that their coming to us this year was a direct result of last year's flower festival. Four hundred men and a hundred horses will draw their sustenance from this city for six weeks—no small matter and in addition the presence of the troops is of advantage to us in many ways. We have not begun as yet to develop all the possibilities of the flower festival. Prominent visitors from Denver last year were quick to see some of these, and the "Festival of Mountain and Plain" was the result.

"I trust the meeting on Monday evening will be so large that an adjournment from the Chamber of Commerce to the Coliseum will be found necessary. If every one will take hold, this year's festival can be made a greater success in all respects than either its predecessors."

GIBSON NOT GUILTY.

The Jury Was Not Long in Getting a Verdict.

The trial of Pat Gibson, charged with being an accomplice in the killing of Officer Shea at Victor on the 12th of last August, was concluded in the first division of the district court yesterday. The verdict acquits Gibson. The trial yesterday was rather crowded with the evidence for the State. In the afternoon the defense put on a number of witnesses and the case was then submitted without argument. The jury was only out a short time when the verdict was announced. Gibson's brother is now serving a life sentence for the killing.

Immediately after being acquitted Gibson was rearrested for an assault made upon an officer at Fairplay last summer and was turned over to the Sheriff of Park county, who was here waiting for him.

First Division.

In the first division of the district court yesterday Judge Harris heard the testimony of the physicians who were appointed to examine into the condition of Reuben Barnes. They reported that mentally he appears all right but that his physical condition is such that he will not be able to appear for trial. The case was then continued for the term.

World's Fair Prizes.

Mr. Charles W. Fiscal, county clerk of Pitkin county, has been presented with a medal of honor by the World's Fair for having had on exhibition at the fair carefully classified and instructive silver ores from Pitkin county. The ores were accompanied by assays which the World's Fair committee thought of such great value that they presented him with this medal.

P. B. Monell & Son of Montrose, Colo., have also been presented with a medal of honor for having the finest wheat at the fair. The wheat was sown April 15, 1893, using 60 pounds of seed to the acre, and when harvested in August yielded 25 bushels per acre.

Mr. P. B. Monell, the receiver of this last medal, is a former resident of this city. This last award was a beautiful bronze medal in a chased aluminum case.
